

Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

ALL elements that give us radio were here all the time if we had but known it, says a scientist. That is true, but in the days of long ago there was not the same inducement to advertise tooth pastes and mouth washes.

It is customary to regard the result of a by-election as a verdict upon some issue of national importance, but, ordinarily, the number of electors influenced by that issue is very small. The main factor is the political complexion of the constituency. The next is the personality of each candidate and next to that come local issues. This would be the order in ordinary times but in times like these public unrest becomes the dominating factor.

This advertisement of church services in a Memphis paper is worth recording as a sample of the unconscious humor of coincidences. "At the morning service Dr. Holcomb will discuss 'If the Depression is Disappearing, What Lessons are We Learning?' Mrs. W. L. Walker will sing 'Search Me, O God!'"

Farmers, cultivate farm land. You can now make both ends meet. Your produce will be in demand. Gandhi's started in to eat.

Smith and Roosevelt have buried the hatchet publicly, which makes Roosevelt's election almost certain. Smith had good reason to have a grudge against some Democrats who voted against him four years ago because of his religion, but he had no reason to harbor a grudge against Roosevelt who nominated and supported him. It would have been very unjust if Smith had penalized Roosevelt for the sins of others, as he seemed for a long time disposed to do. If Smith can now swing his followers to Roosevelt the latter's election is secure.

It remains to be seen whether Hector Charlesworth will make a good chairman of the radio commission, but one thing is sure—he will devote honest, painstaking and intelligent industry to the task. Another thing is sure too—it deprives the Canadian press of its most prominent musical and dramatic critic. His reviews of first nights carried influence and authority, not only here but in New York. We often wondered how he did it. He cannot sing a note; has never been an actor and in spite of all the progress of science and invention in the past thousand years there has not been one musical instrument made that he can play.

When he announced a cut in the C.P.R. salary list, the president said he did not know how long it would be effective, but he hoped it would not be long. Those affected by it would, however, be well advised to

Mr. and Mrs. Mackintosh Welcomed to Vulcan

The Vulcan Dry Goods, under the ownership of Mr. W. M. Mackintosh, opened on Saturday last. The entire store has been renovated and is of clean and convenient appearance. Display windows, dimmed for many months, were fully lighted Saturday evening and looked beautiful with the display of new fall and winter goods for the family. The appearance decidedly improves the business section of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackintosh arrived in town Friday last and for the past week have been introduced and welcomed by residents. The Claresholm Local Press says of their departure from that town:

"Mr. and Mrs. W. M. MacKintosh left for their new home in Vulcan on Friday, the good wishes of their many friends following them. Mrs. MacKintosh was the guest of honor at various farewell social functions, as was also Miss Nancy MacKintosh. For many years Mrs. MacKintosh had been actively connected with the Sunday school and girls work in the Anglican Church, and in addition to the silver flower basket presented by the church people Monday night, she was also the recipient of a handsome bridge lamp from the girls' club and a silver sandwich tray from the children of the Sunday school. And a group of lady friends also made her a presentation of a tea set. Miss Nancy MacKintosh was presented with a silver cream and sugar service by a group of girl friends. Mr. MacKintosh was honored in a presentation by the St. Andrew's Society previously reported."

ELKS' HALLOWEEN DANCE

An annual event looked forward to at this time of the year is the Elks' Halloween masquerade dance. This year the event will be held in the Oddfellows' hall on Monday evening, October 31 with the Knights of Kynthm orchestra supplying the music. This orchestra makes its first appearance locally on this occasion and comes with a reputation second to none. Prizes will be given for the best costumes of all classes. One of the gayest times you have ever had can be expected if past dances given by this local lodge organization are any indication. See the posters for admission prices and other particulars.

WOODLOCK AGAIN OUR MIDST

Mr. Woodlock, better known from coast to coast as "The Sales Wizard," is now getting the stock of F. M. Simington Co. ready for quick sale. Mr. Woodlock says he will again give the people of Vulcan and district bargains that cannot be duplicated. Sale starts Saturday morning at 9 a.m. The place is Simington's Grocery store.

WEDDING BELLS

A wedding of local interest was solemnized at Cayley United Church at 2 p.m. on Oct. 18, when Rowena Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Elves was united in marriage with Hugh Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Campbell of Lacombe.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left for a short honeymoon at Banff, after which they will reside at Lacombe. The bride has been on the nursing staff of University Hospital, Edmonton, and has many friends in this district.

Amongst the seventy guests present were friends and relatives from Calgary, Edmonton, Lacombe, Red Deer, Vulcan and Cayley. The bride is a niece of R. L. Elves of Vulcan, and at one time taught at the Highland school in the Vulcan district.

THANKS FROM HARVESTERS

For the past few weeks four workers of the harvest fields have made their home at the auto camp building. These young men have now left town and on their departure left the following note at the Advocate office: "In leaving this community we wish to thank our many new found friends for favors received during our sojourn in Vulcan. Special thanks is given to W. D. Allan and R. H. Weale. Signed the Four Harvesters." It is not often that appreciation is given in such a manner as this by transients.

VULCAN FANS SEE GAMES

A good number of baseball fans from Vulcan journeyed to Calgary and Lethbridge on days last week when the big leaguers opposed all-star teams in each city. Most of the spectators from here were somewhat disappointed at the exhibition of ball displayed due to the weak opposition given by the city teams, however they were thrilled to see the big shots of the big leagues in action.

HOCKEY PROSPECTS

Colin McInnes and Joe Dobbs Jr., and perhaps other interested hockey supporters will attend the meeting in Claresholm on Wednesday, November 2nd in connection with the organization of the Foothills Hockey League.

Nothing definite can be given as to local hockey but it is anticipated that the local Elks' lodge will put a team on the ice if arrangements can be made with the town council that will encourage effort.

Excellent players are available locally and indications point to an active hockey season this winter. High River, Claresholm and other towns have already signified their intention of joining the league and outcome of the forthcoming meeting at the southern town will be watched for by Vulcan hockey fans.

PURCHASES RED AND WHITE

By announcement in this issue of the Advocate purchase of the Red and White store by D. B. Lockhart is made known. Mr. Lockhart has been connected with the grocery trade in this district for many years, having operated the old XL Market up till four years ago when he sold out to Jenkins' Groceries. Up till two months ago he operated the Reid Hill store, at that time selling the business to J. O'Connor.

Purchase of the Red and White store was made last week and since Thursday he has been "on the job" at the new location.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

R. B. Jamieson has this week been moving the house from the old L. Eamor farm, recently purchased by him, to the land where he now resides. The house is of good size and a great deal of labor was required in the undertaking the move.

Clover Leaf Rebekah Lodge No. 37 held their regular monthly meeting on Monday evening of last week. Mrs. Davies of Calgary, warden of the Rebekah Assembly of Alberta, made an official visit accompanied by many visitors from Calgary. A pleasant business and social evening was enjoyed by all members present. It was decided to postpone the district meeting until a later date.

Corporal D. Forsland of Pincher Creek was transferred to Vulcan last week in connection with the moving of Constable A. R. Bull to that town. Corporal Forsland has been continuously in the service of the Royal Mounted Police, not having been connected with the Alberta Provincials. The Advocate joins with citizens in extending welcome to Corporal and Mrs. Forsland and family.

Annual Meeting of Masonic District No. 11 Held at Vulcan

GEORGE BODENHAM

Funeral service was held at Vulcan on October 21st for George Bodenham who passed away at the Vulcan hospital on Sunday the 16th, after one week's illness. Deceased was born in England and came to Alberta about seven years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Bodenham who now reside at Winfield, Alberta.

George had been living in the Ensign district since the latter part of August and although he had only been such a short time here, he had, by his kind cheerful manner, and sterling qualities, won many friends.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to his bereaved parents and brothers.

Mrs. W. Spence who was visiting her daughter in Vulcan, Miss A. Spence, returned home to Medicine Hat on Monday.

Auctioneer Rebbe announces a combination auction sale to be held in Vulcan Sale Yards on Saturday, November 6th, commencing sharp at 1 o'clock.

Wheat farmers of France are in revolt, refusing to pay rent, and unless the government can check the downward trend of wheat, threaten to pay no taxes.

AUCTION SALE ANNOUNCED

Auctioneer Rebbe, through large posters printed by the Advocate Job Printery, announces a closing out auction sale of the estate of the late Donald Fraser on Wednesday, Nov. 2nd. The sale will be held on the farm place 11 miles west and 2 1/2 miles north of Vulcan. L. H. Stack K.C., is the solicitor for the executor of the estate. See the advertisement in this issue or the posters now on display for particulars.

GOOD DEEDS W.I.

The ladies of Good Deeds W.I. met at the home of Mrs. W. Heslip, Thursday afternoon, October 13. About 20 members and a number of visitors were present. Mrs. Parsons gave a report of the constituency conference at Brant. A discussion in quilt making resulted in plans being made for a wool quilt and this branch will also make a quilt to compete in the handicrafts exhibition at the convention of Women's Institutes next year.

About forty friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. N. Pearce surprised them on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary Friday evening, October 14. Mr. and Mrs. Pearce were presented with a gift of china, from Good Deeds W.I. of which Mrs. Pearce is a valuable member.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. D. Nuley, November 10.

All District Lodges Attend; Over 100 Sign Register

Masonic District No. 11 held the annual district meeting in Vulcan on Friday, October 21st with a complete representation of all district lodges. H. N. Hanna, D.D.G.M. of Lomond presided.

The afternoon session opened at 2:30 o'clock with over 100 members signing the register. Reception was given the D.D.G.M. and the Grand Lodge officers in attendance, these being: M. Wor. Bro., Gilbert M. Blackstock, Grand Master; M. Wor. Bro. J.H.M.S. Kemmis, Grand Secretary; M. Wor. Bro. W. M. Conacher, Past Grand Master; and R. Wor. Bro. Wm. Ireland, Auditor.

A particular interesting afternoon was spent discussing phases of Masonic work and explanation by the custodians. Minutes of the last district meeting were read and other ordinary business transacted.

Evening session opened at 7:45 o'clock with reports of the Worshipful Masters of Robert Burns Lodge, Carmangay; Vulcan Lodge; Champion Lodge; Pyramid Lodge of Lomond; Granite Lodge of Blackie; Nobleford Lodge, and Cresset Lodge of Barons.

The outstanding feature of the meeting was the address given by the Grand Master. All officers of the Grand Lodge gave interesting addresses.

W. Bro. L. E. Atkinson of Barons was elected D.D.G.M. for the ensuing year and Barons was the town chosen as place for the next district meeting.

A delicious supper was served by members of Ferrodale Chapter, O.E.S., between the afternoon and evening sessions and a lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the same group.

WHERE TO LOOK FOR GRUBS

A special circular just issued by the Dominion Entomological Branch in connection with white grub control in Eastern Ontario for 1933 includes the following statement:

"In planning for 1933 it should be borne in mind that the greatest number of grubs are to be expected in fields which were in timothy sod or pasture on light loam, muck or gravel in the spring 1932. Smaller numbers of grubs but of serious consequence can be expected to be present in land which was in small grains or weedy hoed crop on lighter land in June and July of 1932. The smallest number of grubs is to be expected in land clean of crop or well cared for hoed crop during the flight period of the beetles; while heavy clay or clay loam can be considered as likely to be comparatively free of white grubs irrespective of crop or culture in the spring of 1932.

There were a total of 113 fire losses in Alberta and 14 persons were convicted for arson last year in Alberta.

ILLUSIONS

There is a malady afflicting certain types of people, which is called "illusions of grandeur." The taxpayers of Canada are beginning to suspect that they have been suffering from this disease in municipal, provincial and federal governments. Legislative bodies have been afflicted with illusions of grandeur, which have been launching them into a labyrinth of debt, within the past few decades. They have been encouraged in their vast spendings by the citizens themselves. But a great awakening has taken place. There is an imperative demand that all governments cease spending and start conducting their affairs, with the economy that is evident in private businesses and private individuals.

Possibly it was one of our initial mistakes to house our legislators so regally. In Ottawa and in every province are magnificent legislative temples, in which our representatives argue, manipulate and engineer. These stately buildings were, after all, unnecessary. Quite as good work would have been done in Spartan surroundings. In fact it is just possible, that the imposing legislative buildings have stimulated illusions of grandeur. They may have created a false atmosphere, in which lavish spending becomes easy. It is doubtful if the taxpayers at any time were warranted in placing their nice, average representatives in such costly settings, and expecting them to keep a cautious eye on outlay.

Another mistake possibly not warranted by the population or the ability of the people to pay, was the string of public buildings across the continent. Everything on a scale designed for a population twenty times greater than at present exists in Canada.

All this was "building for the future," and in good times seemed good business though burdensome to the poor man. Now, however, it is seen as poor business, and there is a demand that all governments retrench with the same facility that they exercised in spending.

Apparently there have been too many railways built, too many harbors, too many universities, too many overlapping services, too many benevolent schemes, too many and too much of everything, leaving a heritage of appalling debt.

A new era has dawned an era of investigation and criticism, an era of economic research, of commissions, of discouragement of public services. The people have lost the ability to carry their load, and the governments must respond to public demand.

CLOTHES LINE TALE

How the family is weathering the depression, how it is bracing itself to face the coming months—the clothes line tells the world. It is one "line" of depression that is every where. We cannot escape it. By its very omnipresence and its silence, it flaunts its force.

Particularly is it with us these fine Indian summer days, when mother is airing the winter bedding—the many home-made patch-work quilts, the thin blankets with frayed edges—or getting ready the winter underwear.

Bright and early Monday morning out goes the family wash. First come the sheets. Statistics would show there are just as many "halved" sheets in the square mile, as in any part of Canada. Most of us inherited the thrift idea of remaking sheets that have been worn thin in the middle, by tearing them in two parts and sewing the selvage edges together. But many of these sheets have already passed this first economy test, and, while losing some of their former generous widths, are now reinforced on the sides with large patches.

Come the pillow slips. Those from the crocheted and jazy daisy era are still with us, but the eagle eye of the neighbor can see through the subterfuge of the fancy top hem-stitched on to a new body.

Interspersed with the towels, and fluttering impudently in the breezes are the face-cloths, small editions of former Turkish towels, their secret told the world, because of their irregular patterns and miscellaneous sizes. There are too, the "flour sack" dish towels and the sugar and cereal sack dish cloths.

But the truest barometer of the family's degree of depression is the underwear. Right from the infant stage, through the pre-school and school age, to the adult, it can be traced. Waving gaily to the passer-by is Baby Janey's little shirt, so obviously made from mother's or father's old fine soft underwear, even if there is a disguise of home-made crocheted edge, just like that in the store too. Little Willie's black pants once lived in the stocking world. Sister Mary's "undies" just aren't made that way in the factories. As for Big Brother Bill, well, his underwear is but the skeleton of father's old suit, boasting solid and substantial patches.

And so with the stockings: some have new and different colored feet. Shirts with pieces cut from tails to mend collars. All these hidden mended parts of clothes, that show the long hours of work, of planning, of saving—the stress and strain of the depression.

It is this mute evidence of hard times that indicates their prevalence, and their seriousness. It is this evidence that shows the silent struggle, so ominous and so elusive. The registered unemployed we know, and can at least attempt to solve their problems. But what about the people who never speak of their struggle, who, day by day, live in fear of this shadow of want that is stalking their door step? What about those who are using their last resources, and cannot bring themselves to register for relief? What about the innumerable late 'teen age boys or girls, who would be walking the streets, cold and hungry, or arrested for "free wheeling," if they hadn't the backing of the patched sheets?

We speak of our army of unemployed. What about this other army? Two and three years now, this grinding day-by-day struggle has gone on without a break. What a battalion could be mobilized! Under a new flag too—a white flag of courage. And all honor to it, if it be only a patched sheet!—Elizabeth Bailey Price.

ALL WERE WRONG

"There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair"—William Pitt, the younger, near the beginning of the nineteenth century.

"I dare not marry, the future is so dark and unsettled."—Wilberforce, about the same time.

"I have only one desire—to play with courage the part of Marie Antoinette in the revolution which coming on England."—Queen Caroline, consort of William the Fourth, in the early eighteenth-thirties.

"Nothing can save the British Empire from shipwreck."—Lord Shaftesbury, in 1848.

"In industry, commerce, and agriculture, there is no hope."—Disraeli, in 1849.

"I thank God that I shall be spared seeing the consummation of the ruin that is gathering about us."—The Duke of Wellington, in 1859.

DESTROY SURPLUS?

Elsewhere in this issue, there appears an article by Chas. Peterson, of the Farm and Ranch Review, in which he presents certain alternatives in dealing with wheat prices. He says Canada might follow its present policy of allowing events to shape their own course, or through currency management reduce the gold value of the dollar to approximately one half its present value, automatically increasing agricultural prices. A third alternative which he suggests, is controlled bread grain production, amongst the four chief exporting countries, with an international agreement to stabilize wheat prices.

His fourth alternative, which he mentions with some reluctance, is the destruction of wheat, as Brazil is destroying coffee and as fruit countries are destroying fruit.

In order that this might be shared by all, he presents the idea that the major wheat exporting countries might raise amongst them a fund to buy a couple of hundred million bushels of wheat of the lowest grade. Then burn it up. This would dispose of the unwieldy and price depressing surplus.

Many would revolt against this suggestion on the grounds that the surplus wheat might better be given to needy humanity. But such a course would defeat the object of the bonfire. It would only reduce the necessity of buying amongst certain peoples. The act would have to be ruthless and decisive.

The expenditure of two hundred million for such a purpose, does not seem so large when it is considered that that value in excess surplus has cost the growers at least two billion dollars in reduced income during the past three years.

Once the weight of the unwieldy surplus were removed, Mr. Peterson feels assured that the wheat market would respond immediately, and the effect on all industry, would be electrical—until another surplus piled up. Then another depression would set in.

This leads up to Mr. Peterson's conclusion that Canada, United States, Australia and the Argentine, must get together on a system of controlled production. These four countries provide 87 per cent. of the world's export wheat. The situation as regards recurring surpluses is in their hands. If they wish to prevent a periodically recurring surplus problem, they should, in Mr. Peterson's opinion, create a committee to control bread grain areas in each of the major exporting countries.

WHAT CANADA GETS UNDER EMPIRE PACT

A Few of Leading Commodities Which Enter Britain Duty Free

Preference in the United Kingdom market for practically the entire range of Canadian natural products. Free entry into the United Kingdom market for certain timber products.

Canadian fish products, including canned salmon, codfish, oysters, cod liver oil, etc., enter the United Kingdom duty free.

Regulation of the British bacon market and an arrangement whereby free entry of Canadian hams and bacon of good quality up to 200,000 cwt. per annum will be concluded.

Modification of conditions at present governing importation into the United Kingdom of Canadian live cattle.

Free entry (except for sugar duty) to the United Kingdom market, for three years certain on Canadian sweetened, condensed milk.

Free entry into the United Kingdom market on creamery butter for three years certain as against fifteen shillings per cwt. (112 lbs. general tariff and a preference margin of 15 shillings per cwt. during the life of the agreement).

Free entry for Canadian cheese into the British market for three years with preference margin of 15 per cent. to be maintained during the currency of the agreement.

Preferences in the British market on Canadian tobacco.

Free entry into the United Kingdom market on fresh apples as against a duty on foreign apples of four shilling and six pence per cwt.

Canada also receives a preference in the British market on fresh and canned peas, fresh plums, canned tomatoes and tomato ketchup.

A preference of 10 per cent. on Canadian potatoes, but at present there is an embargo in force.

Free entry to the United Kingdom market for three years certain, to Canadian eggs in shell as against certain specific duties against foreign eggs.

A preference of seven shillings per cwt. on Canadian honey in the British market.

A preference of 10 per cent. in the United Kingdom market on Canadian barley.

Free entry for following Canadian grain and grain products with a ten per cent. ad valorem preference: wheat flour, rye, oats, peas, clover seed, hay, bran shorts and middlings oatmeal and rolled oats.

Free entry of canned tomatoes in the United Kingdom market as against a general tariff of 10 per cent.

Free entry for Canadian wheat as against a general tariff of three pence per bushel.

Unsweetened condensed milk enters British market free. Tariff against foreign commodity six shillings per cwt.

MAKING LEATHER GOODS AT HOME

Send to Publications Branch Dom. Dept. Agriculture for Information

In these days when advantage has to be taken of every possible economy interest is revived in the home tanning of leather. A number of inquiries as to how this can be done have been received by the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and to meet the need a special circular has been prepared. This deals with the several processes of fleshing, liming, dehairing, tanning, testing, softening and finishing leathers and hides of different kinds. While the old tanning bark method

SPONGING ON SHOPKEEPERS

A Practice Too Frequently Indulged in by Everyone

The London Times, the "Old Thunderer" himself, has a word or two to say about retail credits, in a recent issue. The great British newspaper says that people who unduly delay payment of their accounts to retail merchants—or shopkeepers, as they call them in London—are just plain spongers.

True enough, in times of economic stress like those which we have passed through, there are many people who may be forced to stall their grocer, their butcher and even their milk man.

But this practice of "sponging on storekeepers" has got to be a habit which must be cured. The practice of "taking longer credit than the shopkeeper can well afford to allow, is simply borrowing money without agreement, and without interest, says The Times. It is therefore a nefarious plan, and one which should stop.

The merchant has to pay for his goods. He also must pay rent, light, heat, wages. It is not fair to keep him waiting, unduly, for his money. And people who have money in the bank, and are able to pay their bills, should now see to it that they pay these bills.

It is not a nice thing when a merchant sees his customers going on expensive vacations, riding around in comfortable cars, wearing good clothes, when those very customers, or some of them, owe the merchant for the good food which the merchant has supplied. It is time to pay accumulated bills, and the merchant should start in and collect. Pay the merchant first, not last.—Exchange.

U S TARIFFS REDUCE CANADIAN EXPORT

Figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show the devastation wrought on Canadian exports of agricultural products to the United States by the latter country's tariff barrier against such goods. For the months of July and August we sent to the United States farm products to the value of only $547,077, as compared with $9,783,758 in the same months of 1929 and $12,154,392 in 1920—a reduction far greater, of course, than is represented in lower price values.

The details are interesting: cattle fell from $2,688,957 in July and August, 1929, to $61,761 in July and August, 1932; wheat from $1,000,877 to nil; fresh beef from $1,200,318 to $31,121; fresh milk from $182,750 to $118; hay from $3,667,593 to $458,771; wool from $435,283 to $9,515; poultry from $83,099 to $497; fresh berries from $225,879 to $94,898; barley from $67,205 to $10; beans from $75-506 to $46; bran, etc., from $686,003 to $26,736; bacon from $122,275 to $51,374; cheese from $416,971 to $7-352; potatoes from $84,738 to $299; eggs from $13,729 to $12.

This is the situation which has given a tremendous impetus to trade within the Empire. So strong is the movement that there is being recorded a steady gain in our Empire business, both in exports and imports, and this improvement is certain to see a distinct acceleration when the agreements coming out of the Ottawa Conference and now awaiting presentation to the Empire parliaments come into full effect.

involved a long period of time and a lot of work many new methods make the home tanning of leather fairly easy.

CONSTRUCTIVE

Alberta Pool and Alberta Pool Elevators are constructive forces in Alberta agriculture.

The perpetuation and further development of these organizations should be the concern of all Alberta grain growers.

We wish to draw your attention to our "Beaver" Combination Summer and Winter Door! This door is equipped with a fine screen panel, and a glazed sash. Just turn the buttons—slip out the screen panel—slip in the sash—and you change a screen door to a winter door in two minutes! Only one set of hardware is required for this door! Just look at the time and trouble such a door saves you! It does away with changing your doors twice a year! And the low cost of the "Beaver" Combination Door will surprise you.

CAN YOU
IMAGINE THIS?If all our wheat crop could be sold to John Bull—At present prices,
—At the present rate of exchange between Canada and Britain,it would take more money to pay the loss in the exchange than the Western Canadian farmers would receive for their wheat.

Can you imagine that!

Wheat is selling in Liverpool now at about $1.27 a bushel. It takes more than 30 cents of that amount to turn it into Canadian funds.The South Alberta farmer today is getting less than 30 cents a bushel for his wheat at point of shipment.The loss in exchange is higher than the value of the wheat.And yet Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett talks about "sound money."—Herald.RECORD SUGAR BEET CROPOttawa: The largest crop on record, the yield of sugar beets grown this year in the province of Alberta, is estimated at nearly 130,000 tons from which about 36,000,000 pounds of sugar will be produced with several hundred tons of molasses.WILL NEST IN PEACECanadian National Railways section forces throughout Western Canada have been doing their share toward increasing the supply of game birds by protecting the nests of prairie chicken and Hungarian partridge which were found on the railway right of way at various points. The movement started with one section foreman in Saskatchewan who on finding a number of Hungarian partridge nests on his section instructed his men to leave a tuft of long grass surrounding the nests in each instance. As the burning of right of way for fire protection takes place before and after the nesting season of the game birds the nests were not endangered from this source In the vicinity of sloughs and ponds many nests of wild ducks were also protected during the season, giving the birds a chance to nest in peace and safety.MILO NEWSMr. and Mrs. H. B. Nelson spent

MORE IF YOU CANA timely suggestion comes from the Dominion fruit branch at Ottawa in the form of a message which has a real appeal to housewives all over Canada, whether in the farm home or in the city. We all know the uncertain straits in which many of our fellow citizens find themselves as a result of conditions entirely beyond their control. With a wealth of fruits and vegetables available at lower prices than for many years, and with other necessary things such as sugar and containers equally available, there should be no need to elaborate about a ready response to the appeal "Just can a little more, if you can, when you can."ARMADA NOTESMr. and Mrs. Donely, Mr. and Mrs.

become reconciled to it. The halcyon days are gone for the railway world.
Salaries and wages were increased in the good old days to a point where they were out of line with other employments. If prosperity won't budge from around the corner the next thing is to move the corner by a process made familiar during the war.
It was called straightening out the line.It would look better than repudiation and have the same effect if the German government would promise to pay war debts after the German elections are over.When people are getting into mischief they like to bring others in with them. That accounts for DeValera and his party's attempts to entangle Northern Ireland in their embroglio with Britain.As with all other commodities the price of ball players in the big leagues is determined by their quality and by the supply and demand.
We do not recommend their purchase as an investment, and even as a speculation it is not alluring. If you bought a major league ball player you might have him on your hands for a long time. It is true that sales have been made recently at high prices, but the market at best is unstable and liable to violent fluctuations. As compared with other marketable commodities, however, they bring good prices if they are in fair condition and not too old.FOR SALEFOR SALE—Two winter overcoats,
